

Packaged drinking water should display ISI and FSSAI numbers'

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

The general public can know the quality of the packaged drinking water manufactured by the firms functioning in Namakkal district by visting the State Food Safety Department website:<https://safewater.fssai.gov.in/CleanWater/home>.

In a press release issued here recently, District Collector M. Asia Mariam said that the companies involved in the manufacture of the packaged drinking water should display the ISI number and the FSSAI (Food Safety and Standards Authority of India) number prominently in all the water sachets, bottles and 20 litre cans for the benefit of the public.

The people by using any one of the numbers in the website could collect the details of the six months or one year test reports and also the quality of the drinking water. They can also collect the details of the usage period etc.

The people can also use the website for knowing whether the companies continues to have the ISI and FSSAI standards.

The Collector called upon the public to take advantage of this facility to know the quality of the package drinking water being supplied to them.

Complaints

The people can prefer complaints about the packaged drinking water companies and also about the functioning of the food safety department to the WhatsApp number 94440 42322, the release added.
