Food safety wing of the chief medical office Mokokchung organized one-day awareness programme on food safety at Mokokchung municipal council conference hall on October 22.

A press release by CMO district media officer stated that, the programme was held with food traders of Mokokchung town, where deputy CMO, Dr. Kibangkumba spoke on the topic general hygiene and sanitary practice. He said it was the responsibility of the food business operators to provide all food handlers with food safety and hygienic requirements.

Food safety officer, Merenlemba Ao gave power point presentation on food adulteration and its effects on health. He said food adulteration leads to toxicity in the body and could even cause body paralysis or death.

Mokokchung Chamber of Commerce and Industry, president, Tsukti Longkumer also encouraged the traders to give their best in providing good quality product.

The programme was chaired by superintendent MMC Mokokchung, Panjung Longkumer and vote of thanks was delivered by district supervisor DAPCU, Mofutula.
